OVERALL PROPERTY

Deep in the Bear Lodge Mountain region of the eastern Wyoming Black Hills, this ranch sits 9 miles north of Hulett in Crook County, roughly 17 miles from Devils Tower National Monument. Much of the 1,268.91 +/- acre offering is a multi-generational Coleman family holding, giving buyers a rare opportunity to own a working piece of the northern Black Hills.

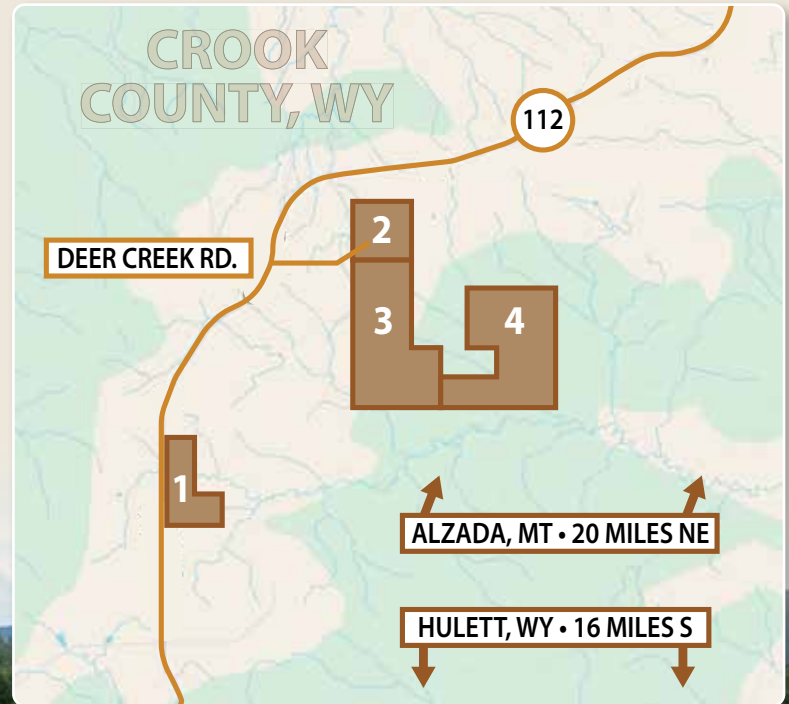

The property reads like the country around it. Native pine draws finger back into timbered ravines, open native grasslands carry grazing through the summer, enhanced pastures extend the season, and productive grass hay ground supports the operation. Water is supported by a network of natural stock dams and two wells. Native wildlife moves through the timber and along the creek bottoms, and the elevated vantage points across the ranch look out over some of the best country in the Wyoming Black Hills.

Access is direct off Wyoming Highway 112 and Deer Creek Road. The four-parcel structure gives buyers the flexibility to purchase individual tracts, contiguous combinations, or the ranch in its entirety.

DRIVING DIRECTIONS

From Hulett, WY: Drive north 8 miles on WY Hwy. #112 to parcel 1 on the east side of the highway. Continue north 1.5 miles to Deer Creek Rd., then drive east on Deer Creek Rd. for $\frac{3}{4}$ mile to parcels 2-4.

From Alzada, MT: Drive south on Hwy. #112 for 16 miles to Deer Creek Rd. Turn and drive east on Deer Creek Rd. for $\frac{3}{4}$ mile to parcels 2-4. Or continue on Hwy. #112 for an additional 1.5 miles south to parcel 1 on the east side of the highway.

PARCEL 1

Parcel 1 fronts directly along WY Hwy. #112, just 8 miles north of Hulett, giving it exceptional access. The property carries an unusual amount of character and diversity for a Hwy. #112 valley piece, combining productive grass hay land, a native draw winding through the heart of the parcel, and a deep, timber-lined draw that pulls wildlife through the natural habitat. Late-season grazing works well here, supported by a stock dam pulling directly off the Seely Fork creek bed. The tract lays relatively flat at the base of the hills, and the valley floor opens up to a 360-degree panorama of the surrounding Black Hills country. PARCEL 3

Parcel 3 offers the most diverse and productive landscape in the offering. Low valley native grazing pastures run along the north side, grass hay fields extend through the heart of the tract, and natural Black Hills timber protects the perimeter. Deer Creek Road provides access along the northern border, and a central two-track lane opens up private access to the back country. North Fork Deer Creek traverses the southern edge, and natural stock dams supply supplemental water through the grazing season. The scale and character of the tract fit an operator looking to expand, and it also opens up excellent building opportunities, whether tucked into the low timber-protected bottoms or set on one of the elevated positions that overlook the country.

Parcel Note: Parcel 4 is as stunning a Black Hills property as you will find in the region. Deer Creek Road provides tremendous access throughout the property, and the parcel delivers deep forested draws, covered valleys, elevated plateaus, and full Black Hills character. The original farmsite that has anchored the ranch for generations lays in a protected valley under full tree cover on this tract, and the well at that site supplies a short pipeline to a livestock tank across Deer Creek Road. Building opportunities range from the sheltered lower reaches under full timber cover to the elevated plateaus that command long views across the surrounding country.
